Guideline for Postdoc-Scholarships (dated 08-07-2025)

I. General Information

At least one postdoc grant can be awarded each year to support and promote women in science. With this grant programme, the University Executive Board aims to enable talented female scientists to pursue a successful career in research and teaching after completing their doctorate. In particular, the aim is to strengthen the ability of female scientists to be appointed to a permanent academic position.

The grant offer comprises two funding lines:

Funding Line 1

Application for the grant in the form of bridge financing / start-up financing in the postdoc phase. Applications are open to woman who are pursuing a leadership position in academia or science and who want to conduct a research project in cooperation with scholars and scientists at Paderborn University and raise external, third-party funding in this connection. The grant holder can undertake teaching duties in her field of research at Paderborn University free of charge (two weekly hours per semester).

A presence of the grant holder at Paderborn University is generally required. The implementation of the scholarship from abroad is not permitted. Conference and research trips, stays in archives and libraries, etc. that are necessary in connection with the implementation of the academic project or for the further development of future professional prospects are not taken into account.

Funding Line 2

Application for the scholarship as a final scholarship to complete the habilitation at Paderborn University. Women are eligible to apply if they are pursuing a leadership position in academia or science.

The decision to award the grant is taken by the Executive Board upon the recommendation of the Committee for Research and Junior Academics (Research Committee).

The duration of the funding period is generally 18 months. The approval of the grant is subject to the proviso that appropriate budget funds are available for the grant period. The financial support is provided in the form of a grant. There is no entitlement to this grant.

Furthermore, the grant holder may extend the maximum funding period by up to 12 months if she lives with her child/children in a household at the time the grant period commences and if at least one child is under 12 years of age. This also applies if the first child is born during the scholarship period.

The application for the extension needs to be submitted 6 months before the end of the funding period.

Part-time grants can be awarded upon application in order to give the grant holder the opportunity to devote time, in addition to her academic work, to caring for her children or family members due to age or illness. The duration of the grant is extended in alignment with the reduction of the grant.

Funding of the postdoctoral scholarship beyond 36 months is not possible.

The postdoctoral scholarship can be interrupted exceptionally and once for a short period within the funding phase. This requires a justified application to the Research Committee. The reasons for the interruption should represent an important qualification step for the subsequent professional career. The further scientific qualification and the progress of the research project/habilitation must be demonstrably given.

After approval of the application by the Research Committee, the period of approval from the respective notice of approval is suspended for the specified interruption period. No payment of the scholarship will be made for the approved interruption period.

II. Reporting Obligations

After the end of the funding period, the grant holder is requested to submit a results report to the Research Committee on the current status of the funded research project or submitted habilitation and to present the future prospects and outlook.

III. Notification obligations towards Paderborn University

Paderborn University must be informed immediately of any changes in the circumstances which are relevant for the granting of the scholarship or about which declarations have been made in connection with the application.

If the grant holder discontinues her scholarship, she shall inform the Research Committee of Paderborn University of this immediately.

IV. Eligibility to Apply

Female scientists who can prove that they have completed a very good doctorate are eligible to apply. This can be proven by a degree that was assessed at least magna cum laude, by the submission of corresponding doctoral reports or by proof of adequate publications.

The intended research project must be conducted in cooperation with other women scientists and scientists at Paderborn University (Funding Line 1).

V. Amount of Grant

The grant is in the amount of 2,400 EURO per month (maximum amount).

The grant holder shall receive a child allowance in the amount of a lump sum of 400 EUR/month if she has to support at least one child under 18 years of age. This amount is increased by 100 EUR per month for each additional child.

If the grant holder and her spouse or partner receive a scholarship under this guideline, the child allowance shall be granted only once.

If the spouse or partner of the grant holder receives a benefit with a child allowance (or family allowance/child-care allowance) according to other regulations, the objective of which corresponds to the statutory educational support or this guideline, the child allowance of the grant holder can be increased upon application up to the upper limit of 400 EUR/month (sentence 2, number V).

The child allowance is paid upon presentation of the birth certificate from the month in which the entitlement arises. The Committee's Head Office must be informed of any changes in circumstances without being requested to do so.

The grant holder must proactively inform Paderborn University about benefits she receives under the German Federal Parental Allowance and Parental Leave Act (Bundeselterngeld- und Elternzeitgesetz) and the state laws on childraising allowances; such benefits will be credited against the scholarship.

The financial support is provided in the form of a grant. There is no entitlement to this grant.

Any taxes related to the grant/scholarship are the responsibility of the grantholder. The grant holder is aware that the grant/scholarship provider is required to inform the tax authorities in accordance with the German Transaction Reporting Regulations (Mitteilungsverordnung – MV as amended from time to time).

The grant is financed from the Fund for Financing Research Project Measures.

Receiving the grant does not establish an employment relationship; it does not constitute remuneration within the meaning of the German Social Security Code (Sozialgesetzbuch).

VI. Gainful Employment

Gainful employment in addition to the postdoc scholarship is only permitted if it is carried out outside Paderborn University. Gainful employment is an annual average of 8 hours a week in addition to the postdoc grant permitted if exercised outside Paderborn University.

Gainful employment must be reported unsolicited in accordance with number III. The progress of the research project/habilitation may not be negatively influenced by the gainful employment.

If an application is written and submitted in English, the applicant is expected to make an effort to learn (more of) the German language for the purposes of better integration.
